I was a member for 25 years and later chaired for 3 years the Data Analytics Technical Committee of the Association of Edison Illuminating Companies' (AEIC). The AEIC was founded by Thomas Edison in 1885 and its current membership is comprised of senior level leaders of 165+ utilities across North America and Asia. The organization's membership represents roughly 85% of the electric generating capacity in North America. The Committee is comprised of 30 senior managers representing member utilities across North America. In my capacity as Chair, I represented the Committee on the AEIC's Board of Directors.

In my capacity as a senior manager at PG&E, I often consulted with the utility's Executive Management on matters related to customer energy management and customer care.

As an officer at the international energy consulting firm Nexant Inc., I consulted with executive leaders at various utility clients throughout North America as well as being involved in the firm's business development and strategic planning.

What talents and skills do you bring to the Board?

I currently operate a small boutique LLC with two partners consulting with Utilities, Public Service Commissions and independent oversight boards on matters related to Energy Efficiency, Energy Management, and renewable power.

The following are skills that I have honed over my career that are directly applicable to serving on Diablo's Board:

- Quantitative and qualitative research methods
- Management and oversight
- Strategic and tactical planning
- Business development
- Talent assessment and acquisition
- Personnel development
- Team building

What more would you like us to know about your qualifications to serve on the Diablo Region Board?

I have driven Porsches for several decades although my first ownership experience wasn't until 2004 with the purchase of a 2002 Boxster S. Unfortunately, it took me ten years to join PCA primarily due to some preconceived misconceptions about the Club and its membership. Those ten lost years were a mistake that I still kick myself over!

Porsche as a manufacturer has changed radically since the dawn of the 21st Century with "Wasserkühlung" and several "nontraditional" model lines. In the future, the pace of change will surely quicken, especially with propulsion systems and additional model lines. As the Club's advertising tag line says, "it's the people" which rings so true! The face of Porsche owners i.e., the face of PCA is also changing. We must be prepared as a club to embrace change and adapt by meeting the needs of our traditionalist "Luftgekühlt" members as well as our newest members who have purchased their very first Porsche which may be a vintage sports car or more likely an SUV, a four-door sedan, or even an electric powered Taycan. Along with the machinery, the club's demographics are also changing. PCA is a "big tent" with Diablo's membership now nearly 1,600 strong. To me, diversity is a wonderful thing but, must be nurtured to best meet the needs of our entire membership. Such changes require leadership and an eye towards embracing the future while respecting and honoring the past. The most important thing I can bring to the Board is that I never lose sight of the club's objective. We belong to this club to have fun, to share in our common passion, and love for these wonderful machines, and to enjoy the comradery, the joy and freedom that the open road that the Porsche ownership brings us.

Although I'm a dyed in the wool "petrol head", I do have a diverse set of interests outside of Porsche which provides a sense of balance to my life. These interests include competitive and recreational sailing, marine fish keeping, rugby, culinary arts, wine, reading history and of course my lifelong obsession with Formula One or enjoying a cold beer or glass of wine with family and friends!

I possess the skills and personal character to strengthen the Board; with a sense of humor, , pragmatism, absence of ego and a respect for others, I'm easy to work with which can only help in continuing to make Diablo Region an organization that Porsche owners will want to join and actively participate in.

Thank you once again for your interest.
